

In a multi-process display method of displaying processes to be debugged in a debugger system, an operation state change and detailed information of each process are acquired, each process is displayed using a predetermined pattern, a relationship between the processes is displayed using a layout of patterns and lines therebetween, the current operation state of each process is displayed using a particular display mode for the pattern, and the detailed information of each process is displayed.